Equipment For Sewer Lines Made Locally

Salem Welding Service, a firm founded by Howard McGaffick 12 years ago, has become a small manufacturing concern.

Its specialty is sewage lift (pump) stations, two of which are being completed for the city lines extension to the new A&P plant site at the south edge of the city.

Once installed, the Topco Co. designed tanks are accessible through aluminum doors. The interior includes a dehumidifier and an automatic control panel. The Soda & Lusher Co. of Niles, which is installing the water and sewer lines to the 60-acre plant site, was able to obtain the lift station from a local manufacturing firm, instead of buying one built elsewhere. Norman Weingart heads the Ohio Pump Co. (Topco) which engineers pump specialties.

Howard McGaffick employs 8 men at his Prospect St. shop where last fall he completed erection of a new building addition which provided for 4,000 extra square feet of space, nearly doubling the size of the erection shop. McGaffick, a World War II veteran, is a former commander of Allen Reynolds Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars. Richard Wanner is office manager.

Samaritan Bill Is Expected To Pass Senate

Aim Is to Halt Malpractice Suits In Accident Cases

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The so-called Good Samaritan bill is before the Ohio Senate today.

It is designed to protect licensed medical practitioners and nurses from malpractice suits brought by those treated in accidents and catastrophes.

Expected Senate passage would send it to the House.

An important House vote also was in the offing on a measure to kill off some 35 self-serve liquor stores in the state—establishments which have racked up record sales since their establishment within the last four years by Liquor Director Richard C. Crouch in the administration of former Gov. Michael V. DiSalle.

Customer breakage was given as the principal reason for the change.

The Senate spent a sweaty 90 minutes over three House-approved bills controlling operation of the Ohio conservancy districts. There were nearly a dozen amendments, but only one was approved. It was a bit of language which would permit a conservancy district court—one Common Pleas Court judge from each county in such a district—to approve dissolution of a district.

In all the Democratic-Republican battle which apparently crossed party lines at random, not an apparently political word was heard.

And the strange part about it was the fact that in passing the series of three bills only one negative vote was registered.

As Sen. Charles Jones, R-Butler, put it quietly to a reporter: "These people are just spoiling for a fight. Some night we'll have it."

The series of three bills would revise laws governing organization of districts, allow conservancy districts to issue revenue bonds to pay for improvements, equipment and land needed for projects (this one is an emergency measure) and a bill to permit conservancy districts to borrow money from the Ohio Water Commission for emergency uses, to be repaid later under permanent financing programs.

The House received Monday night 3 new measures, including one which could be the fall-back area in connection with Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes' proposal for "golden age" villages as repositories for the non-psychotic aged.

They, the senile but non-psychotic aged, are accumulating, despite the efforts of Mrs. Mary Gorman and Dr. Robert A. Haines, directors of welfare and mental

Survived on Melted Snow for Six Weeks

California Pilot, Coed Tell Of Ordeal In Canadian Wilds

WHITEHORSE, Yukon Territory (AP)—A California pilot and an undaunted Brooklyn coed felt their strength flowing back today in a Whitehorse hospital after a seven-week ordeal of hunger and cold in the subzero Canadian north.

They said faith in God brought them through after their plane crashed Feb. 4.

Helen Klaben, 21, and Ralph Flores, 42, a father of six from San Bruno, Calif., said they survived on melted snow for the last six weeks.

"It was water for breakfast, water for lunch and water for dinner," said Miss Klaben, managing to smile for her rescuers although she had a broken, gangrenous right foot and a broken left arm and was gaunt from hunger.

She lost 30 pounds—the heavily bearded Flores lost 40—but Miss Klaben quipped: "That was one good thing about the experience. I used to be pleasantly plump."

Flores, a pilot and electrician, also is a Mormon lay preacher. "His faith set the example for me to follow all my life," said Miss Klaben.

"I am starting my adulthood with full knowledge of what I have to do. I wasn't rescued until I understood, until I realized my sins and decided to make recompense for them."

"It was Ralph's Bible. I read both the Old and New Testaments. I know what I have to do, what my work is, what faith is, faith in God."

Miss Klaben said she never lost hope, but was puzzled "why the Lord was keeping us so long."

Then, she told reporters, she realized "Ralph and I both needed time to think over our lives."

During the terrifying weeks in the wilderness, Miss Klaben said she longed for her mother, Ida Klaben of Brooklyn, more than anything or anyone else.

Her first act after arriving at the hospital here—where Dr. Nestor James reported she and Flores were "doing as well as can be expected" — was to telephone home.

In Brooklyn, Mrs. Klaben sobbed: "I'm so wrought up I don't know what to do. The poor child, she's really suffering. I'd like to go to her. She's such a wonderful, wonderful girl."

Flores, who suffered a broken rib and frozen toes, also telephoned home when he got to the hospital.

"We were so happy and emotional we couldn't tell each other much," said his wife, Theresa. "He had tears in his eyes. I am sure, and I was the same way too."

Sheryl Flores, 14, talked to her father. Tears streaming down her face, she kept repeating: "When are you coming home?"

Flores told reporters he expects to be released from the hospital in about five days.

He said his light plane was blown off course in a snowstorm and crashed on a heavily timbered

Tells House Group of Policy On Information

Claims Some Things Must Be Done In National Interest

WASHINGTON (AP)—Pentagon press chief Arthur Sylvester—described as "the villain of the piece" in a congressional inquiry into government information policies—has offered his rebuttal to charges of news management at the Defense Department: "Hogwash."

Sylvester spent three hours Monday telling a House subcommittee about the Defense Department's information program. "I am a newsman," he said, "and in the somewhat altered role of government spokesman I am trying to give the American people the truth about the operation of their government."

Sylvester, a former Washington correspondent, said he didn't "sell out" the principles of the news business when he went to work for the government.

He told the subcommittee he "certainly will review" an order requiring defense officials to report all their contacts with newsmen and say what they talked about. The order came in for heavy subcommittee fire.

He said the government does not have a continuing right to lie to Americans—but does have a responsibility to do whatever has to be done, "no matter how repugnant," when the nation is confronted with the threat of nuclear war.

Sylvester, chief target of news executives who complained at a hearing last Tuesday that the government has lied to the people, and Robert J. Manning, the State Department's chief public information official, testified as the subcommittee pressed its inquiry into news policies.

The next phase will come behind closed doors, in sessions expected to begin after Congress takes its Easter recess. They will deal with restrictions on newsmen against Communist guerrillas in South Viet Nam, secrecy about military missile launchings and why wartime censorship plans are being kept secret.

Sylvester gave his assessment of news management charges after Rep. George Meader, R-Mich., told him, "You, in a sense are the villain of the piece. I want you to defend yourself."

Sylvester said the only place news can be managed is in newspaper offices. "Under our free

4 Persons Hurt In Accidents

2 Sebring Women Are Hospitalized

A North Benton woman and two Sebring women were injured Monday at 2:15 p.m. on Route 62, about three miles east of Alliance, when their car was struck from the rear by a tractor-trailer.

Admitted to Alliance City Hospital after the crash at the Johnson Rd. intersection were Mrs. Nona Larkins, 66, of W. Oregon Ave., Sebring, and Mrs. Mildred Waugaman, 55, of 346 W. Virginia Ave., Sebring.

The driver of the auto, Mrs. Margaret Nestor, 56, of RD 1, North Benton, was treated at Alliance City Hospital for contusions of the back and released.

Mrs. Larkins, in fairly good condition, is being treated for a possible back injury. Mrs. Waugaman, who suffered contusions of the head, is also listed in fairly good condition.

The Lisbon barracks of the State Highway Patrol reported the women's auto was traveling east and turning north when it was hit from behind by a truck driven by Ralph D. Sherrick Jr., 39, of Connessville, Pa. He was cited for driving without the assured clear distance.

This morning at 3:55 a.m. a Sebring motorist dozed off at the wheel of his car which struck a power pole and water hydrant just outside the western Salem limits on Route 62.

Edward M. O'Toole, the 27-year-old driver of N. 15th St. was treated at Central Clinic Hospital for a lacerated eyelid after the mishap. He was cited for reckless operation.

Trees Removed From Overpass Site

Work Progressing On 3 City Projects

Working crews in trees and newly dug excavations, the steady noise of power tools of one kind and another, and the operations of gigantic mechanical equipment were spelling out city construction progress in at least three areas of Salem today.

The removal of trees in the curb lawn section of W. State St. where the railroad overpass is to be built soon began yesterday and was continuing today. Workers were first removing branches of the trees and then felling the trunks in the three-tenths of a mile strip where the overpass will be constructed.

Soon to begin is the building of 20-foot wide access roads to serve the homes in the overpass vicinity.

Steady progress is being made on the installation of a utilities line under the Pennsylvania Railroad about 1,000 feet west of the Lisbon Road, behind Chappel & Zimmerman Inc.

A 30-inch pipe is being placed under the tracks to serve an expected Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. meat and food packing plant just south of the tracks.

The installation is being done by removing dirt under the tracks and without disturbance to the tracks. The pipe is being put in

Dr. George Van Horne, executive head of Beaver Local Schools, announced today the Board of Education has released Thomas McCall, high school head basketball coach for the last two years.

Four-Room Addition To Be Built

School Construction Contracts Awarded By Greenford Board

GREENFORD — The Greenford Board of Education awarded four work contracts totaling more than $130,000 at a special session Monday night, setting the stage for several school improvements by the fall term.

Successful bidder on the general contract was the Nespeca Construction Co. of Youngstown at a quoted price of $101,500. The contract calls for the construction of a four-room kindergarten-elementary section, the addition of a new industrial arts section, library and storage and the installation of a sewage disposal system.

The heating and ventilating contract went to Prout Boiler, Heating — Welding Inc. of Youngstown, $15,395; the electrical contract to the Charles W. Thompson Electric Co. of Lisbon, $8,550; and the plumbing contract to the R. D. Walker Plumbing Co. of Youngstown, $4,936.95.

The new classroom section will house about 120 pupils and will be erected at the north side of the present school. Superintendent Woodrow W. Bailey said the addition will take the strain off the highly populated school.

The shop addition will be built at the northwest corner and will improve the industrial arts facilities, Bailey said.

The superintendent reported construction will begin next week with work on the shop addition to be given priority. All the building and improvements are expected to be complete by Sept. 1 in time for school opening.

The sewage disposal system will replace the present system built in 1928 and declared unfit for use by state health officials.

Money for the improvements derives from passage of a $165,000 bond issue by residents of Greenford School district last November.

The board's next regular meeting will be April 18.

Want All Cubans To Unite

Castro's Teacher Seeks Overthrow

NEW YORK (AP) — A distinguished-looking man who knew Fidel Castro as a boy and taught him law at Havana University now seeks a union of all Cubans to overthrow the Castro regime.

"Two revolutionary groups can not overthrow Castro," said Dr. Carlos Marquez Sterling. "Certainly, five groups cannot do it. If all Cubans unite with the same leader and the same program, then the defeat of Castro will be possible—perhaps not in two or three months, but in six months or a year."

Marquez Sterling reportedly has widespread support from within Cuba to be the leader of a unified struggle against Castro, according to some exiles in this country.

He has said he would be willing to lead such a struggle—provided his countrymen want him to. "If not," he said, "I would be pleased to support any man acceptable to the Cubans. I have no political ambitions after Castro is overthrown. I seek only the freedom of my country."

At 60, Marquez Sterling can look back on a life of opposition to a series of Cuban governments. In 1933, he fought in the revolution that overthrew dictator Gerardo Machado. He opposed the regime of President Fulgencio Batista—

"but politically, not as a revolutionary," he adds.

His opposition to Castro is just as calm and just as unswerving. "I have nothing against Fidel personally," he said. "He was a student of mine at Havana University. He was a friend of my

TFX Contract Probe Ripped By McNamara

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senators called more witnesses today in their investigation of the TFX warplane contract following warnings by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara that "only harm could come from the probe."

"There is a lot of harm that will accrue from this investigation," McNamara said in testimony released Monday by the Senate Investigations subcommittee. "I cannot see any good that will accrue from it. I can see only harm."

He pegged his protest to what he called frictions between the Pentagon and the subcommittee. But he said he was not suggesting that the senators drop their inquiry into whether favoritism might have steered the fighter-bomber contract—which ultimately may be worth $6.5 billion—to the General Dynamics Corp. of Fort Worth, Tex.

McNamara swore that neither political influence nor self-interest motivated his warding the contract to General Dynamics over the Boeing Co. of Seattle, Wash. He said the fact that Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson comes from Texas—where most of the planes will be manufactured—had nothing to do with his decision.

Senator Asks Increase In Sales Tax

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Sen. Charles Whalen Jr., B. Montgometry, called today for a $150 million bond issue and 4 per cent sales tax to expand education in Ohio.

He drafted a proposed change in the state constitution for submission to the legislature. Approval would place the constitutional amendment issue on election ballots for final decision by voters next November.

Whalen estimated a 1 per cent increase in the present 3 per cent sales tax would produce an additional $95 million next year. Present sales tax yields about $260 million annually.

The senator proposed to funnel $10 million a year into a bond retirement fund for higher education. The balance of all sales tax revenues would be earmarked for public schools, state-supported and state-assisted colleges and universities. He said the $24 million now going to local governments from such revenues would be continued.

Whalen said the additional sales tax would remain only until sufficient money in the fund was adequate for bond retirement, about 1984.

Gov. James A. Rhodes has expressed opposition to any increase in the sales tax.

Konnerth Burglary Loss Still Unknown

The exact value of the loss in rings, watches and other items stolen Sunday from Konnerth's Jewelers at 119 S. Broadway has not yet been ascertained, according to proprietor Edward Konnerth.

An inventory was being continued late this morning, and a list of items taken in the daylight burglary is expected to be completed in another day. Thus far, the estimate of the loss is placed at "several thousands of dollars." The stock taken was insured.

Thieves broke into the jewelry store between 2 and 6:30 p.m. and forced open the safe, apparently with power tools.

Police Chief Martin Lutsch Jr. said the jewelry store burglary was "the same kind of operation" performed in three other unsolved local burglaries: at Strouss-Hirshberg Department Store on Feb. 24, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., last Nov. 18; and the Ohio Fuel Gas Co., last Nov. 25.

Brazil Official Threatens Arrest Of Communists

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Organizers of an anti-American, pro-Castro congress face the threat of jail if they open the Brazilian section of the rally in Rio de Janeiro today as scheduled.

Anti-Communist Gov. Carlos Lacerda of Guanabara State, which includes Rio, made the threat of arrest Monday in a move to bar the congress, which has aroused adverse comment in the U.S. Congress.

Lacerda has no authority, however, in Sao Paulo, where the major international section of the so-called Cuba Solidarity Congress opens Thursday. The congress is neither supported nor condemned by the administration of President Joao Goulart, which got a pledge of $398.5 million in low interest loans in Washington Monday.

The head of the congress organizing committee, retired Gen. Luis Gonzaga Leite, said earlier the Brazilian rally would not move to Sao Paulo. He could not be reached for comment after the arrest warning.

Lacerda said "public order, social peace and democratic liberties" were threatened by "subversive action of an organized minority."

Authority for his decision, he said, could be found in the state constitution and laws which "prohibit propaganda for war, class struggle and violent methods of subvert constitutional order and perturb public order."

In Ohio, your dollar will buy more electricity today than 25 years ago!

Your money now buys less of most things, with this big exception. You actually get more electricity for your money than you did 25 years ago!

Then how come your monthly electric bill is bigger?

It's because you are using 5 1/2 times more electricity—but thanks to that lower unit cost, your bills aren't up in the same proportion.

What has kept the price of electricity low in Ohio? Thanks to Ohio's historically favorable business climate, the electric companies have been able to raise the millions needed to make improvements. Through these improvements they have kept the price of electricity down. Your increased use of electricity has helped, too.

The result: You pay less per unit of electricity today than you did 25 years ago—and less than the people in 31* other states!

Questions And Answers

Q—I cough up bad - smelling phlegm every morning, although I have no cold or sinusitis. I do not cough during the day. What causes this? How can I get rid of it? Would cough medicine help?

A—The symptoms you describe are suggestive of bronchiectasis. This is a disease of the bronchi or air passages in the lungs in which the smaller branches in some area become dilated. There are various causes of this condition.

In children it may follow pneumonia, measles, whooping cough, or influenza, or it may be part of the childhood disease known as cystic fibrosis.

IN ADULTS it is sometimes caused by the inhalation of a foreign body, such as a peanut or a thumbtack. In almost every case there is a history of some sort of obstruction associated with infection.

Once the dilation and infection of the end of a bronchus occurs, it is difficult for the bronchus to clear itself of the mucus and pus that are formed. When the bronchus fills up, there is usually a coughing spell in which a large amount of foul-smelling sputum is brought up. This may happen only on arising in the morning, or it may happen when there is a sudden change in the position of the body. Blood is commonly brought up with the sputum.

FORTUNATELY, since the introduction of antibiotics, bronchiectasis is not as common as it used to be. Cough medicine, vapors, and sprays have not been of any benefit to persons with this disease.

A treatment known as "postural drainage," in which the sufferer lies draped over the edge of a bed with his head near the floor for about 10 minutes two or three times a day, helps to establish the flow of sputum and makes the victim more comfortable. This will not cure him, however. Surgical removal of the diseased portion of the lung gives the best results.

Failure of this treatment sometimes occurs when the patient refuses to stop smoking.

Q—Why is it necessary to X-ray a child's teeth though no apparent defects were found by the school dentist? Isn't such exposure to X-ray dangerous?

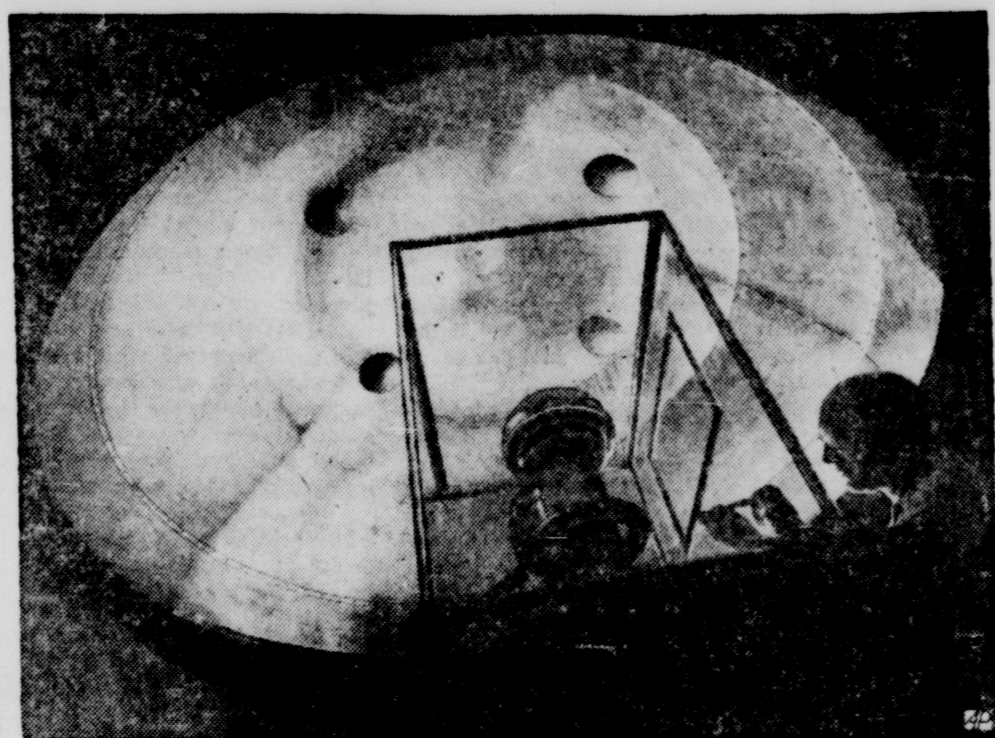

A—It is advisable for children and adults to have a complete dental examination twice a year. This should include dental X-ray once a year, because the X-ray may reveal cavities or other abnormalities that the dentist cannot see. The hazards of diagnostic X-ray examinations have been grossly overrated. Modern equipment protects the patient from undue exposure. One should have no hesitancy about having an annual dental X-ray checkup.

Q—When my 21-year-old daughter eats her jaws pop. This is embarrassing to her. What causes this?

A—It is normal for a person's jaws to pop when the mouth is opened very wide as in yawning or in eating a three-decker sandwich. It is hard to see how there could be any popping while eating if small mouthfuls are taken, unless there is an exaggerated movement of the lower jaw from side to side. If the condition persists, an examination by your family doctor should clear up the mystery.

San Francisco—Super Shell with Platformate has just delivered a mileage bonus of 4.3 percent. Platformate is Super Shell's mileage ingredient. Shell engineers test Super Shell for mileage in many different types of cars, in many different places. Here's how the test above was run. Exactly 250 cc (about half a pint) of a fuel blended without Platformate was fed into the test car's engine. The car was started, accelerated to 30 miles per hour, then held there until fuel ran out and the car rolled to a stop. Distance: 6186 feet (indicated by dotted line in background). Next, test was repeated, using Super Shell—same fuel as before but with Platformate added. Precise same volume of fuel. Same car. Same speed. Same driver. Same conditions. Distance: 6454 feet. That's 4.3 percent farther than with non Platformate gasoline.

MILEAGE TEST

Documented tests prove that one of Super Shell's 9 working ingredients packs about 4 percent extra mileage into every gallon

THE picture above was snapped a few moments after Super Shell with an extra mileage ingredient called Platformate delivered a mileage bonus of 4.3 percent.

That's a typical result from a series of mileage tests Shell engineers ran last year on the outskirts of San Francisco.

The tests compared two gasolines. One was a gasoline Shell scientists blended exactly like Super Shell—but without Platformate. The other was Super Shell with Platformate.

Shell's test car was a 1962 convertible. You may be driving a similar car right now.

In test after test, Super Shell with Platformate consistently took the car about 4 percent farther than the gasoline blended without Platformate.

And there's a very good reason why. Platformate can actually release more energy per gallon than the finest 100-octane aviation fuel. The modern automobile engine can convert this extra energy into extra mileage.

Super Shell has 9 working ingredients to make your car work better

Good mileage is just one of the benefits you get from Super Shell. And Platformate is just one of Super Shell's 9 working ingredients. Why not take a moment now to read about the other eight—what they are and how they work to help your car work better.

TCP* and cat-cracked gasoline work to give you a smooth-running engine and power when you need it.

Butane and Pentane mix work to give fast starts and smooth warm-ups.

Anti-knock mix and Alkylate work to fight knock for a smooth, quiet engine.

Gum preventive and anti-icer work to help carburetors stay clean inside and to help check icing stalls.

*Trademark for Shell's gasoline additive for ignition control. Gasoline containing TCP is covered by U.S. Patent 2889412.

For good mileage, stop at this clean white Super Shell pump. Super Shell, with nine working ingredients, also helps you get a smooth-running engine and power when you need it.

ELECTRICITY Bakes Pies Better ... Because It's FLAMELESS

Taste-tempting pies and cakes aren't miracles, they're everyday events when you have a flameless electric range. With accurate heat control plus the fact there are no hot drafts of constantly changing air, pies, cakes and roasts retain their natural moisture for finer flavor and texture.

Because it's flameless, electric heat is clean as electric light so pots and pans stay bright, curtains and walls stay cleaner far longer. Buy an electric range and you'll really enjoy the extra advantages you get only with flameless electric cooking.

Is Pinball a Game of Skill?

Ohio liquor director Donald C. Cook says he welcomes a showdown on the right of permit holders to keep pinball machines on the premises after April 1, his deadline for getting rid of the machines or having liquor permits revoked.

He says action begun in Franklin County Common Pleas Court by 18 owners and lessors of pinball machines and one permit-holder "will resolve the question once and for all."

The question is whether a pinball machine properly can be housed in a place where the Department of Liquor Control assumes responsibility for the environment in which liquor is sold.

There would be no issue if pinball machines were classified as gambling devices, because gambling is absolutely forbidden everywhere in Ohio.

The issue is whether pinball machines that do not give payoffs in money are in any sense gambling devices. It is interesting to note in this connection an effort in Illinois to clear up the status of the machines.

"There is little difficulty in defining what is to be banned," commented The Chicago News recently. "The target is the type of machine which rewards the player with money, credit for merchandise or free games (which can be redeemed for cash). The effort to outlaw such gambling may seem to some eccentric and pitiful. Such objects lose sight of the evils that flow from the $30 million a year that the machines reportedly return in Illinois to the operators. Such money provides a motive for corrupting public officials."

It may take a law to clear up the matter in Ohio. In the meantime, the Franklin County Common Pleas Court will take a crack at the issue.

Do Ohioans think they are gambling when they play pinball machines?

A Better Way to Choose Judges

If a resolution now pending before the Ohio Legislature is adopted, Ohioans will vote next fall on a constitutional amendment to permit appointment of the state's Supreme Court and Appeals Court judges.

This bipartisan proposal to get judges out of partisan politics—where they've never really belonged—merits the support of the legislature and the people.

The amendment would permit the governor to appoint a 10-member, bipartisan judicial commission, equally composed of lawyers and lay people. The governor would appoint judges from candidates recommended by the commission.

THE TERM would remain at six years. Upon completion of a term, a judge would stand for re-election by the people, presumably on the basis of his performance as a judge, not on the basis of his politics or the way he spells his name.

In effect, he would be running against himself. Voters would mark a Yes or No ballot to keep him on or put him off the bench.

The idea isn't new. The plan is patterned after one now in effect and, we understand, working well in Missouri.

The proposal has been made in Ohio before. Time, we believe, has demonstrated that it could work to the benefit of the judges and the people if adopted here.

FOR YEARS, Ohio voters have been paying close attention to Bar Association endorsements of judicial candidates. If the candidate looks good to the lawyers, who know his qualifications, who's going to argue?

There is no point in subjecting the judicial candidate to party politicking in primaries and electioneering in elections, especially those who have huge appellate districts or the entire state to cover.

What kind of campaigning can be done by a man who will be expected to pay it down the middle when he's on the bench?

What kind of judgment can the people make on the specialized qualifications of a man to handle himself competently on the judicial bench?

Mostly a Matter of Psychology

As far as we know, they don't pay attention to fine points of psychology in the Department of Defense. Too busy, no doubt.

They muddle through on suppositions that have served the armed services well in the past—that a massive military presence is the main thing. If this is sweetened with reasonable restraint on the part of its members and sympathy and understanding in local relations, everything will turn out all right.

But problems do arise. No all the "Yankee Go Home!" signs are erected by Communists. Some were put up by patriots who didn't like the sense of being taken over by a foreign power.

Moreover, in recent years there has been the BOMB.

One of the places it caused complications was Holy Loch, Scotland, which became a Polaris base despite the misgivings of native Holy Lochers and the angry opposition of Britain's "bomb banners."

In Holy Loch, as elsewhere, the idea of being moved in on by outsiders who represented potential oblivion if the BOMB was used was unwelcome to the natives.

Yet, one day last week when the Polaris submarine depot ship Proteus sailed for home, after two years at Holy Loch, Scottish and American women mingled their tears.

About 130 of the former have married officers and sailors from the ship. They and the American wives will come to the United States on other transportation.

The policy of encouraging wives to accompany their husbands and bachelors to find wives worked well at Holy Loch. The Scots learned to value the Americans as friends.

What would work even better, if the Department of Defense ever pays attention to the finer point of psychology, would be to let nations and cities compete with one another for U.S. military installations, instead of forcing installations on communities that never asked for them.

They would show hospitality if it killed them.

Writers contend there are only five fundamental plots. We've seen six: Cowboys, detectives, soldiers, spacemen, doctors and commercials.

Cotton Corners

By Truman Twill

Dear Nephew: We are well here and hope you are the same, though the tone of your letter sounded as if you were on the ropes.

Keep your chin up, boy. Also your tail. Don't shuffle your feet. Don't feel downcast because things look glum.

They always look glum this time of year. That's why we used to take sulphur and molasses. Not that the mixture made things less glum, but believe me it took your mind off your other troubles.

Trouble is that today there's no dividing line between one season and another. They don't even make back beer the big thing it used to be. In other times, when they came to the bottom of the vats it marked a turning point. Back beer was a kind of sulphur and molasses.

There used to be the fateful weekend when people were cut out of their winter underwear—sometimes literally. No one risked bathing in cold weather, but depending on the date of Easter there would be a Spring cleanup on or about Easter Sunday.

We'd be toggled out in new shoes, new underwear, new stockings, new suits and hats and new shirts and neckties. They made a new man of you.

Later on kids celebrated the advent of summer by taking off their shoes. When you sprinted to school barefoot and concentrated by gripping the desk leg with a bare toe, it was time to think about "no more teacher's sassy looks."

There's a move afoot to get rid of the nine-month school year, and it meets with my approval. As long as one season is going to run into another the kids may as well go to school continuously and get it over with.

Summer jobs are not what they once were. If high unemployment is going to stay with us, we'd better face up to the tough fact no schoolboy is going to be put to work in summertime at the expense of somebody on unemployment compensation or relief.

I see nothing wrong with keeping the schools open. It won't make the slow learners learn any faster but if they let the fast learners stay on the job that would be a net gain. I am assuming that anyone who wants to go to school 11 or 12 months a year will have this privilege and vacations won't be compulsory.

With a few changes, I think our system of education could be superior to any in the world. In many respects, it already is. But the one place it lags is its preoccupation with the lowest common denominator. We need to distinguish between those of us who have only ordinary ability and those who have extraordinary ability. We need to use all their capacity. If the stretched-out school year will promise to do that, I will back it to the hilt.

Your aunt says to tell you this is big talk coming from a horrible example of what a school dropout looks like 50 years later, but she is slandering me when she says this. I was not a dropout. I was a throwout. There's a difference.

Chin up. Tail up. Look on the bright side. There's a bluebird just around the corner and right behind the bluebird is the April 15 deadline for settling the income tax score with your old Uncle Snatch. Regards to all.

JFK Omitting Part of Beveridge's Economy Plan

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Lord Beveridge, famous crusader for the "welfare state" concept, died a few days ago in Oxford, England at the age of 84. But his ideas didn't die with him.

President Kennedy has adopted them currently as the major part of his administration's program—but with one significant omission. It's this omission which is causing Mr. Kennedy political trouble and could spell his defeat in the 1964 election.

Lord Beveridge insisted, for example, that stability of wages and prices is absolutely essential to prosperity. He pointed out that the best-laid plans for a "welfare state" can go awry if this part of the program is mishandled.

The Beveridge report was prepared at the request of the British government in 1944. It was signed by Lord Beveridge alone, but he had at his disposal the whole information resources of the government for investigation and consultation.

The American people re-elect or defeat a president on the basis of good times or bad times. Mr. Kennedy has just predicted an unemployment rate of 7 per cent and a "decade of chronic troubles and recession" if his tax-cut proposals are not adopted. But he might better have said that this contingency will arise, even if a tax cut is granted, unless something constructive is done to eliminate costly strikes and the use of extortionate power by labor unions in the big strikes.

LORD BEVERIDGE paid particular attention to the role of America in the postwar economy and pointed out that basically conditions were the same in England as in the United States with respect to the labor issues.

He favored low tariffs, deficit spending for "welfare" projects, tax reduction and low interest rates—all of which are "new frontier" philosophy. But he considered labor-management relations as the key factor in the success of the "welfare state."

The most significant passages in the Beveridge report read as if they were written this very year, and they could be applied to the New York and Cleveland newspaper strikes. He wrote as follows:

"The right of wage-earners to combine for the purpose of negotiating wages, hours and conditions of work is generally regarded as an essential British liberty. The tradition that they should bargain sectionally, each craft and trade for itself, is old and strong."

"Making the labor market generally a seller's market rather than a buyer's market will increase permanently and markedly the bargaining strength of labor of trade unionism, that is not born. In so far as this leads to labor, as a whole, gaining a larger share of the total product of industry, it leads to a desirable result."

"But, given the sectional structure that goes to the wage-earner the only possible result. Particular wage demands which exceed what employers are able to pay with their existing prices and which force a raising of prices, may bring gains to the workers of the industry concerned, but they will do so at the expense of all other workers, whose real wages fall owing to the rise in prices."

"The other workers will naturally try to restore the position by putting forward demands of their own. There is a real danger that sectional wage bargaining, pursued without regard to its effects upon prices, may lead to a vicious spiral of inflation, with money wages chasing prices and without any gain in real wages for the working class as a whole. . . ."

"If prices are kept stable, rising productivity will make possible a continuous, if not spectacular, rise of money wages, even if the share of the total product that goes to the wage-earner remains no higher than a price."

"If that share can be increased, wages may rise still more; such a development is desirable from the economic as well as from the moral point of view."

"But the attempt to bring it about must be a coordinated attempt. I must not be a blind groping and pressing by numerous groups, each of which sees only its own sectional interest and tries to exploit its particular strategic advantages, and none of which attempts to judge the position of the whole economy. . . ."

"In the new conditions of full employment, wages ought to be determined by reason, in the light of all the facts and with some regard to general equities and agreement between the parties. Not simply by the bargaining power of particular groups of men."

"This suggests, not that there should be continuance in peace of the compulsory arbitration which has been accepted in war, but that collective bargains in each industry should in general include a clause for arbitration by an agreed arbitrator, in default of agreement between the parties."

"THE EMPLOYERS' Association and the union would thus be pledged in advance to accept the arbitration of a body of support of any kind to lockouts or strikes in defiance of arbitration. . . ."

"So long as freedom of collective bargaining is maintained, the primary responsibility of preventing a full-employment policy from coming to grief in a vicious spiral of wages and prices will rest on those who conduct the bargaining on behalf of labor."

"The more explicitly that responsibility is stated, the greater can be the confidence that it will be accepted. But both the state and the manners of business have their part to play. . . ."

"Strikes and lockouts, though they cannot in a free society be forbidden by law, are anachronisms as indefensible as ordeal by battle. They should give place to reason, but reason cannot work in practical affairs without facts."

"The correlative to acceptance by trade unions of an arbitration clause in all collective bargains would be acceptance by employers in all important industries of standardized accounting practice and their readiness to put all the facts as to profits, costs and margins unreservedly at the disposal of the arbitrator and an expert staff for criticism."

Whatever one may think of the soundness of Lord Beveridge's financial and budgetary proposals, the fact remains he insisted that the program should be regarded as a whole and not as a set of separate recommendations. This is the factor being ignored today by both the President and Congress.

"More News From Congress, Chief!"

GOP Wooing Labor Vote

By VICTOR RIESEL

Now that the 1964 presidential campaign has begun, the labor section over at the Republican national headquarters has suddenly come into its own. It has begun working overtime.

While insiders don't quite expect labor to flock to the GOP like Washingtonians to a White House lawn party, an intriguing trend is developing.

THERE IS A MOVE inside the once conservative, and once Republican, building and construction trades unions to the side of GOP leaders—even those being talked of as the "competition" to John Kennedy.

In New York, for example, Nelson Rockefeller uses the direct line technique. During the recent gubernatorial campaign, he was heavily backed by the building unions. Today, when he agrees or disagrees with these labor leaders—and mighty important they are in the big city and state, he lifts the phone and talks to them personally—and no infrequently either. They have similar access to him.

Gov. George Romney in Michigan and Gov. Jim Rhodes in Ohio have similar contacts, though not quite as close as those of Rockefeller.

In Pennsylvania, Gov. William Scranton is doing right well in some sections of labor. His intense work in the costly 19-day Philadelphia transit strike got him a friendly front-page mention in the Transport Workers Union national newspaper, the "Express."

In all my years of listening to Mike Quill roll his rhetoric and wave his cane, I have not heard a kind word for a Republican.

One of Gov. Scranton's appointees is Pat Giuliano, a former Transport Workers Union official, and long a Republican. He now is deputy secretary of the Pennsylvania State Department of Labor and Industry.

THERE WILL BE other such appointments in Republican states. There is talk at the GOP national labor desk, headed by the ever traveling Robert Gormley, that Gov. Romney will make such moves.

Gormley, once a plumber by trade, was in the Research Department of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers before he went over to the Republican National Committee. Today he is a dues-paying, meeting-attending member of the Office Employees International Union, Local 2, which covers many Washington labor headquarters.

Gormley and his colleagues know that taking labor votes from John Kennedy is like trying to take the pennant from the Yanks.

Why is it when some fellows get a girl out under the moon they promise her everything under the sun?

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Relax, Sis

Dear Ann: I was interested in your reply to the woman who was upset because her guests insisted on helping her clear the table and do up the dishes in spite of her protests.

When we entertain guests I'm perfectly relaxed about leaving the dishes until they say good-night. But this one friend of mine is an absolute nut about orderliness. She just can't stand disorderliness.

I've begged her not to clean up, but she may as well be deaf. She goes right ahead, clears the table, washes the dishes, puts everything away, dumps the garbage, scours the sink and bleaches the dish cloth.

I can't tie her to a chair, Ann, and she simply insists on cleaning up in spite of my pleading. In recent months I've let her go ahead and do it. Am I being rude in permitting a guest to work while I sit in the living room—

History Today

Today is Tuesday, March 26, the 85th day of 1963. There are 280 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history.

On this day in 1913, Ohio and Indiana were devastated by floods which took more than 3,000 lives and caused property damage in excess of $50 million. As a result, large detention reservoirs were built on tributaries of the Miami River running through Ohio. Similar flood prevention measures elsewhere in the nation ultimately aided in saving lives and property.

On this day:

In 1794, Congress passed the first Embargo Act.

In 1804, the Louisiana Purchase was divided into the Territory of Orleans and the District of Louisiana.

In 1892, death came to one of America's great poets, Walt Whitman.

In 1941, Belgrade, Yugoslavia, was the scene of demonstrations against the Axis powers during World War II.

In 1945, Britain's World War I prime minister, David Lloyd George, died at the age of 82.

Today's birthday:

German pianist Wilhelm Backhaus is 79. Scientist-educator James Conant is 70.

Miss Klaben was finishing a five-month stint as a draftsman with the U.S. Bureau of Land Management.

She said she was heading for California en route to Hong Kong on the first leg of a round-the-world tour. First reports said she was on the way back to New York to continue engineering studies.

Flores, an electrician on the U.S. Dewline (distant early warning) radar network, had completed his contract and was flying home in his $7,000 private plane.

Telling of the crash from his hospital bed, he said he was planning to stop at Fort St. John, in northern British Columbia, but got lost in snow clouds.

"I was trying to use the last drop of gas in my tank because I was going to use more time to get to my destination. When I saw where I was, it was too late."

"I was checking the radio range, looking for the beam and watching the mountain when the center tank ran out of gas. Just as I reached over to switch on the front tank, the wing tip caught the trees."

"We just went inside the trees." Flores said the two were unconscious for 30 minutes to an hour. He suffered rib, jaw, eye and face injuries. When he recovered consciousness, his feet were partially frozen. That, he said, was why he did not move away from the wreckage until about two weeks ago. Miss Klaben also was almost immobile.

Doctors said the forced inactivity probably was one reason the two were able to survive without food. But they said the pair had just about reached the end of their strength and they doubted that either could have lasted another week.

The pair had two cans of fruit and two of sardines which they managed to eke out for a week. Then they ate two tubes of toothpaste. After that, they survived on melted snow.

Miss Klaben said she noticed the cold only for the first two weeks but "the nights were bad."

Flores, less seriously injured, left the plane two weeks ago and built a brush-lind shelter from seat coverings and canvas fittings on an exposed knoll two miles from the plane wreckage. They had plenty of wood for fires and plenty of matches, but their only tools were a hammer and ax.

U.S., Russia To Resume Berlin Talks

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States and the Soviet Union today resume exploratory talks on Berlin.

Only one session is definitely planned: an afternoon meeting between Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin and Secretary of State Dean Rusk. The object is to see if serious East-West negotiations on Berlin are possible.

U.S. officials firmly declined to speculate about the possible outcome of the meeting. But they said privately they expect Dobrynin to expand on Soviet Premier Khrushchev's recent suggestion that the flags of the three Western occupying powers in West Berlin be replaced by the U.N. banner.

In proposing last January that new exploratory talks be held, Moscow gave no indication it is planning to make new proposals.

The Soviets, it is believed here, want to keep this channel of communications open not necessarily on Berlin alone. Dobrynin, some U.S. specialists feel, might bring up other issues, such as the Kremlin's old proposal for a non-aggression pact between the Atlantic alliance and the Communist bloc.

All this, officials stress, is little more than guessing.

Probes and negotiations dating back to the end of World War II have failed to produce any Berlin solution. The last series of U.S.-Soviet talks broke down last October, just before the Cuban crisis.

eldest son. But I never liked his extremely radical ideas."

A ruggedly handsome man with steel gray hair combed straight back, Marquez Sterling spoke in English with a heavy Spanish accent at an interview Monday night in his comfortable Manhattan apartment.

"Unity among the revolutionaries in Cuba is difficult, since they are not always in communication," he said. "But recently a person came here from Cuba via Mexico and said the revolutionary groups had taken a secret poll and that I had received a majority of votes to lead the Cuban struggle."

"If this is truly so, I told this person, then I will accept that responsibility. I would even go back to Cuba to aid in the struggle. But I will not be the leader of just one faction."

If a unified group can be formed said Marquez Sterling, it will try for United States recognition and support.

A member of the Cuban House of Representatives from 1936 to 1944, Marquez Sterling presided over the constitutional assembly that drew up the Cuban constitution of 1940. He describes himself as a "progressive dedicated to a democratic form of government."

He ran for president in 1958 but the counting of the votes, he says kindly, "was not very well done." Shortly thereafter came the Castro revolution. Marquez Sterling took asylum in the Venezuelan Embassy and subsequently fled the country because, he said, "I knew what to expect. I know Castro very, very well."

The Navy chooses its most promising officers to attend the War College at Newport, R.I. This normally marks them for more responsible duties.

The names of Gravelly and Thompson appeared on a list of officers tapped for classes convening this fall.

Gravelly will attend the senior command and staff course in a class of 135 officers. Thompson will attend a warfare course numbering 100 officers.

Hundreds of items imported from other countries, depicting trade between nations was exhibited at a meeting of the Beaver Local Parent-Teacher Assn. Monday night at Beaver Public School.

The trade fair was a project of the seventh grade students under the direction of Chester Urbach, social study instructor. The exhibit was the first event to take place in the new gymnasium recently completed as part of an extensive building program in the Beaver Local School District.

The program for the evening also featured tumbling by 30 girls from the 7th and 8th grade physical education classes under the direction of John Pape, instructor.

Area Burglars Play For High 'Steaks'

SEBRING — Burglars at the Fireside Inn played for high "steaks" and won last night. To top it off, they filched cigarettes and $46 in cash from the bowling machine and music box.

The theft of T-bones, sirloins and other high-priced meats from the restaurant-tavern on Route 62 between Sebring and Alliance was discovered early this morning by an inn employee.

She called Smith Township Constable Herbert Bollia at 4 a. m. after she noticed the inn was dark, although lights are always left on. Bollia said the thieves apparently unscrewed the bulbs to work in the dark.

Entry was made by breaking the glass in the front door. Mrs. Ann Paone is the proprietor.

In other business, Police Chief Leon Zahndt gave a report on the village's 14-year-old parking meters and discussed the purchase of new meters, but Council tabled action on the matter until the next meeting. The present meters were purchased June 13, 1949, and several have been overhauled two or more times. Zahndt said the company has offered to install new mechanisms and repair the casings of the 212 meters at a cost of $39.95 per meter. The village could either pay the company 50 per cent of the collection until the meters are paid off, $1.50 per meter per month or the total cost of $8,469.40.

Robert Kelm, chairman of the street committee, recommended immediate repairs to a number of village streets and the cleaning of gutters and catch basins.

The street committee instructed Mayor Stockman to hire additional help if necessary to get the work done before the streets get any worse.

Courtney Pennell, area manager of the Ohio Fuel Gas Company, reported on gas consumption and company problems of supply during the winter.

Mrs. John Spagnoletta of E. High St. complained about a neighbor allowing boys to play basketball in her back yard. She was advised that Council has no jurisdiction in the matter.

"I think what you're talking about is not news management, but are we giving information, are we giving access to it, are we giving the facts as they are," Sylvester said. He said at the Pentagon, the answer is yes.

As for the news management complaints, Sylvester said, "I will happily issue a blanket denial, gladly. I frankly think that a lot of the talk is hogwash."

2 Launchings Set At Cape Thursday

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A big doubleheader launching scheduled Thursday will end a lull in the U.S. space program. It will not break 1963's over-all pattern as a building year for great exploits expected in 1964 and after.

At 1:30 p. m. (EST) Thursday, the mammoth Saturn is set to thunder aloft on the fourth test flight for this booster—the forerunner of a rocket which will carry American astronauts to the moon. At 9 p. m., a sleek Delta rocket is to attempt to hoist the Explorer 17 satellite into orbit to investigate the structure of the earth's atmosphere.

Technical or other troubles could delay the launches.

As on three previous Saturn tests, all of them successful, only the first stage will be fired. After 100 seconds of flight, one of the eight engines which power the 165-foot-tall rocket will be shut off to check the vehicle's ability to perform its mission if an engine fails.

Explorer 17 is another of a family of scientific satellites designed for basic research in the world beyond our world. The 405-pound ball is crammed with devices to measure temperatures, composition, pressures and density of the atmosphere at altitudes from 155 to 580 miles.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruise —

Dear Reader: If you do not own one of those meat pounders . . . that's one of those gadgets that looks like a sledge hammer and has a bunch of little squares on one end of it that is used for tenderizing your meat . . . then try my method.

Use your husband's hammer! By golly there is no use to buy somethin' and have an extra gadget in your drawer if you can get along without it. Especially when we don't use it too often.

I don't see a bit of sense in cluttering up your drawer with a bunch of odd stuff when you can keep it clean and find your favorite paring knife.

Anyway, while I was preparing round steak, I chicken-fried it. I could not find my "checked sledge hammer" and so I picked up my husband's new hammer. I used it to pound round steak on my dough board. It not only served the purpose but doggone if it didn't do a swell job.

The little pieces of chicken-fried steaks all of a sudden expanded to a larger size. But . . . let me tell you what I did to the round steak before I even pounded it.

I used unseasoned tenderizer. After I played tiddlywinks with my little piece of steak, I put the tenderizer on it and left it for nearly four hours. (There are directions on the bottle which do not say to leave it four hours. This just happened to be convenient with me and made a perfect steak.)

I then threw the little pieces of steak in flour and pounded it with the hammer. This beat the flour into the round steak itself. I threw it in some bacon grease and browned it thoroughly on both sides. Put seasoning in . . . covered it with the lid and after pouring a cup of water on it let it simmer for 30 minutes.

Please believe me, this is a grand way to tenderize meat. Get out your husband's hammer. Wash it with a piece of steel wool and pound that meat. It's much better for tender eating.

DiSalle To Be Chief Of City In Virginia

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Ohio Gov. Michael V. DiSalle will become president of a still-to-be-built city in suburban Virginia, it was announced today.

Robert E. Simon, owner and developer of the area to be known as Reston, Va., announced DiSalle's appointment in a speech prepared for a meeting of the Advertising Club of Washington.

DiSalle, former administrator of the Office of Price Administration in the Truman administration, was governor of Ohio from 1958 to 1962. He lost his bid for reelection last November to Republican James A. Rhodes.

Simon said construction of the 10.5-square mile tract in Fairfax County—to include houses and apartments for 75,000, industrial sites and recreation areas—will begin this summer.

Simon said DiSalle, now a visiting professor of political science at the University of Massachusetts, would take over as chief executive officer on May 1.

Citizenship Group Get Diplomas

Mrs. Guy Byers, executive director of the YWCA, presented diplomas to 13 members of the citizenship class who completed an eight-week course in citizenship training at the YWCA, when Mr. and Mrs. George Wier and Miss Barbara Early entertained the group at a graduation party recently in the Wier home on S. Lincoln Ave.

Wives and husbands of the graduates were special guests.

Members of the class were Mrs. Olga Jennings of Cuba; Mrs. Luisa Bevacqua and Mrs. Carmelina Citino of Italy; Mr. and Mrs. Chris Ziegler of Germany; Stanley Michniak of Poland; Mr. and Mrs. Siegfried Henrich of Austria; Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Robinson of Scotland; Ewlampj Prychodzenko of the Ukraine, and Mr. and Mrs. Armando Colaizzi of Italy.

Preceding the ceremony, a coveredish dinner featuring distinctive dishes from native lands of the graduates was enjoyed buffet style. The table was decorated in spring shades of blue, yellow and green and centered with an arrangement of yellow jonquils and white snapdragons.

A surprise stork shower honoring Mrs. Wier was a concluding feature of the party. Slides of Washington, D. C., were shown by Mr. Wier.

The citizenship classes are sponsored by the YWCA and are held twice each year. The next class will begin Sept. 7, and another in January 1964. The classes meet at the "Y" for eight consecutive Tuesdays and study basic English and courses preparatory to U. S. citizenship examinations.

These courses are free of charge and any foreign-born person desiring this citizenship training may contact the teachers, Mr. and Mrs. Wier and Miss Early or the office at the YWCA.

Crying Town Crier

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Britain's champion town crier today forecast little future for his art in this country.

"Everything in America is far more mechanized than in England," said Herbert Waldron.

"That's a big wound to us town criers—mechanization. It has virtually destroyed us."

Bert, an elfin-faced little man of 59 who is known as "Whisper," is official town crier of Great Torrington, a Devonshire textile center. He came here for a two-week visit to demonstrate his skill at a Paramus, N.J., shopping center.

Looking somewhat like a cross between a robin and a blackbird in his 17th century costume—crimson vest, black top hat, black gloves, black frock coat—Waldron said the medieval glory of the town crier has fallen upon evil times.

"There are only about 100 of us left in all England and Wales," he remarked, "and it's now only a part-time job."

Bert works as a machinist in a glove factory. The Town Council provides him with his uniform and pays him $2.80 a week to go about the town making municipal announcements. Serving also as a kind of strolling television commercial, he picks up a few extra pennies shouting business messages and news of bingo parties.

As Bert has the loudest voice and biggest town crier's bell in England—it weighs 7½ pounds—he is also in seasonal demand by neighboring farmers who employ him to scare away crows.

Five times, Bert has won the British town crier championship held annually at Hastings, where William the Conqueror landed in 1066. Each victory brought him $140.

"The big problem is competition from the wind, the waves and the traffic," he said.

"The judges are hidden. They judge you on diction, tone, volume, and—above all—on correct English. No mumbling. It simply won't do."

"The letter witch plays a big part. If you drop too many aitches, you lose points. I'm very bad there. But there's always more than one way of taking a pig to market."

Bert says the biggest public misconception about the town crier is that he begins his cry by saying, "Hear ye, hear ye, hear ye." Actually he calls out "Oyez, oyez, oyez," an old French demand for silence.

It takes Bert about two hours to make the four-mile tour of his home town during which he makes his cry some 50 times.

Gets Perfect Score In Test

A perfect score on the Airman Qualification Examination was made recently by Robert Lee Lutz, Jr. (left above), son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Lutz of 649 E. 7th St., the first Salem area man in 2½ years to achieve the feat.

The score, which occurs once in 1,000 tests, makes Lutz eligible for training in any skill that the Air Force offers. He is a 1962 graduate of Salem Senior High School.

Scoring a close second to Lutz on the exam was Thomas Scott McLaughlin, (at right) son of Mr. and Mrs. Erven E. McLaughlin of 273 W. 14th St., and also a 1962 Salem Senior High School graduate.

Shown with the youths is T. Sgt. Jack E. Brestle, Air Force recruiting representative in this area, whose offices are at 129 Walnut St., NE Canton.

Both young men were sworn into the Air Force in Cleveland Monday and were sent to Lackland Air Force Base, Tex., where they will complete basic training and be reassigned for technical training in the electronics area.

Knox School Bee Winners Named

Two girls emerged as victors in the Knox Local School spelling bee Friday in the elementary and junior high competition.

Seventh grader Joanne Griffith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Griffith of RD 2, Salem, was the winner in the junior high bee and Beth Henderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Henderson of RD 1, Beloit won in the fifth and sixth grade contest.

Joanne spelled "shriek" correctly after it was missed by runner-up Dora Pasco, then spelled "silhouette" to win. Miss Pasco is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pasco of RD 1, Salem.

Beth Henderson correctly spelled "quarrel" and "quarantine" after runner-up Michael Bardo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bardo of RD 2, Salem, tumbled on the former word.

The winners will compete in the Youngstown contest in May.

Pronouncer was Dr. Clyde Vanaman of Alliance, Mahoning County elementary school supervisor.

Judges were John Pickens, principal, and Mrs. Ellen June Wulf, physical education director.

Harvard University's charter, granted in 1650, dedicated the college to "the education of the English and Indian youth," according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Brother Is 9, Sister 11

Mark and Leslye Hunter Are Busiest of the Busy

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Mark and Leslye Hunter, brother and sister aged respectively 9 and 11, are two of the busiest young performers in show business. They are grandmother to provide the so busy, in fact, that it takes the combined services of their mother, Diana, and their maternal requisite amount of chaperoning chores.

Like most other young professionals who have grown up around adults, both youngsters seem old and sophisticated beyond their years and have a poise that a member of the international jet set would envy.

Leslye, the younger, got into show business quite by chance about three years ago. She was going to dancing school and was asked to try out, along with the other students, for a bit in "The Dave King Show" one summer when the English star was doing a television summer replacement show.

Soon came a part in a Broadway show and she moved along to television. She was beaten to death in a "Ben Casey" episode, and was in dire peril in "Route 66." She suffered so well in a "Defender" show last season that she is now back making another.

Mark, who followed along, has a string of Broadway hits under his belt that even a middle-aged performer would envy, including "Gypsy," "The Music Man," "Camelot," and "Bye, Bye Birdie."

Both youngsters attend the Professional Children's School in New York. When Leslye works in Hollywood, she keeps up by a special correspondence course.

Their mother, who accompanied them on a recent interview, sat back proudly and let the children chat.

Leslye, asked about her attack on a new script, smiled wisely and explained: "It's quite easy. First I read the script through three times to establish the relationships—it's really a bit of Stanislavsky method. Then I read it once more. I have it."

Said Mark: "A Broadway show is an entirely different experience."

All Ohio "A" Stars, Coach Of Year Named By AP

Crestview's Kress Makes Third Squad

By HAL PARIS
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The kids who may become the college stars of tomorrow make up the 1962-63 Class A All-Ohio high school basketball team named for The Associated Press.

Speed, size and shooting are trademarks of the scintillating quintet selected from among the 445 Class A schools in the state.

More than 120 newspapers, radio-television stations and 300 coaches participated in the balloting with selections based on pre-tournament play only.

Top honors went to Mike Hyde of Wakeman Western Reserve as Player of the Year and Bob Gwin of York Township in Sandusky County, who was tabbed the small school Coach of the Year.

Suess High Up In Voting
Both won their accolades in close competition that saw Joe Pangrazio of Dennison St. Mary come in as second best player.

Others in the race for coaching honors were Bob White, Columbus University; Joe Spraul, Waynesfield-Goshen; Glenn Bower, Dennison St. Mary; Al Gundrum, Celina Catholic; Jerry Suess, Greenford; Vern Hooper, Simon Kenton and Bob Morrison, Colonel Crawford.

Hyde, a rugged 6-foot-8½ performer, hit the nets at almost a 27-point-per-game clip and averaged 19 rebounds a game. He hit 52 per cent from the floor in registering 457 points in 17 contests.

The top scorer on the first team, however, is a 5-9 hotshot from Powhatan, Rob Ben Wiley. Wiley, an "A" student and president of his senior class, tallied 519 points for a 28 per game average. Described as a brilliant dribbler and ball-handler, Wiley's chief offensive weapon is a nifty fade-away jump shot.

Rounding out the first team are Wayne Taubken, Wapakoneta St. Joe and John Howard of Columbus University.

Gwin, 32, the father of four and a Maumee High School grad, has coached at York since his graduation from Bowling Green in 1953. He attended college on a football scholarship and played no basketball for the Falcons.

Guides Teams To 150-45 Mark
His teams have piled up an impressive 150-45 record during his 10-year tenure and his current squad (24-2) is in the state high school tournament this weekend.

The second All-Ohio team, captained by Jim Connelly, Marietta St. Mary, also includes Sam Gebhart, Bucyrus Holmes Liberty; Ron Volpe, Yorkville; Bob Klopfer, Germantown and Paul Jewell, Summit Station.

On the third unit are Wayne Young, Hamden; Paul Steffani, Bettsville; Capt. Jim Kress, Columbiana Crestview; Duane Miller, Dalton and Ken Turner, Cincinnati Deporres.

Marion Pleasant's Doug Lichtberger, who scored 20 points per game and is rated a great defensive star, barely missed making the third team.

shot at Old Dutch with a convincing 73-61 decision over Coca-Cola at the Memorial Building Monday. Salem Tech was awarded a forfeit over Fad Music in the only other clash slated.

A 32-point scoring effort by Andy Salkow kept the losers in contention for three periods. The second half shooting of Dick Youngpeter and Bob Hutton for the winners was the difference.

At the end of the initial period, the score was tied 15-15. The winners took a two-point 32-30 margin at intermission and then spurred into a nine-point 53-44 spread by the end of the third stanza.

Youngpeter netted 19 markers to pace the Bankers. Hutton chipped in with 17, Sonny Bowman chalked up 15 and Frank Shagnot collected 13. Jim Hill made 10 points for the losers.

Salem's ninth grade basketball team, while posting a 12-7 record during the season, outscored its opponents 820 to 700, with Jim Lantz netting 187 of the markers.

The Quakers fashioned a 43-point average per game, while limiting the 19 schools they met to 35.7 markers per game.

Rick Klepper proved to have the best eye. His accuracy on field goal attempts was 45.9 per cent as he hit on 40 of 87 shots he tried.

From the charity circle Doug Plastow connected on 73.6 per cent, cashing in on 14 of 19 free throws.

COACH TOM COPE used most of his squad every ball game and 6 of the players who saw action made the scoring column.

Lantz controlled the boards for Salem as he hauled down 118 rebounds. Jim Miller and Klepper gave considerable help in this department, grabbing 85 and 73, respectively.

Klepper was second in scoring for the young Quakers with 106 points. He was followed by Dave Fleischer with 96.

Denny Miller, son of former Salem varsity coach, Bob Miller, finished with 79 markers.

Towering 1st Baseman Clouts 2 Home Runs

Adcock's Slugging Powers Indians To 11-6 Decision

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Big Joe Adcock, Cleveland's first baseman, has worked into condition and has found the home run range.

The 35-year-old former National League slugger proved it Monday in the Tribe's 11-3 victory over the Houston Colts here. He powered two three-run homers over the left field fence—some 375 feet away.

"I reckon I'm in shape," said the 6-foot-4, 220-pound Adcock after the game.

Because of his age, Tribe Manager Birdie Tebbetts let Adcock work himself into shape at his own pace. He told Adcock to set up his own conditioning program and let Tebbetts know when he felt ready to play.

Adcock told Tebbetts Friday he thought he was set, and Monday he convinced everybody with his big bat. Obtained from Milwaukee in an off-season trade, Adcock is expected to provide the long ball for the Indians.

Hit 248 Last Year
He batted .248 in 121 games with the Braves last season, drove in 78 runs on 97 hits, including 29 home runs.

Willie Kirkland and John Romano also got three hits apiece in Cleveland's 13-hit attack. Al Luplow, recently discharged from the service, singled twice.

Adcock's first homer was off Houston starter Bob Bruce in the third inning after Woodie Held walked and Luplow singled.

Walter Bond's walk, singles by Adcock and Kirkland, and Max Alvis' sacrifice fly added three more Cleveland runs in the fifth.

In the sixth, Jerry Kindall led off with a double, advanced on a sacrifice and scored on Held's sacrifice fly. Adcock's second blast came off southpaw George Brunet after Bond walked and Luplow singled.

Alvis' double and Romano's single accounted for the Tribe's final tally in the seventh.

Tribe Meets Boston Today
The Indians, now 11-6, play Boston here today.

The Tribe Monday made its first major cut and optioned eight players to the minor leagues on 24-hour recall. Pitcher Tommy John and outfielder Hector Cardenas went to Jacksonville, a Triple-A club; outfielder Tommy Agee and pitcher Joe Cox to Charleston of the Class AA Eastern League; pitchers Enrique Garmuri and Maccan Lowe, catcher Milt Swift and outfielder Lee Green to Burlington of the Class A Carolina League. Infielder Billy Consoal was returned to Jacksonville.

Punches Were Contributing Factor

Fall On Ropes Blamed For Moore's Death

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A coroner's autopsy shows that Davey Moore suffered three times the amount of brain damage originally indicated by an encephalogram after his fatal fight against Sugar Ramos.

Moore's backward plunge onto the lower strand of the ropes is believed by autopsy surgeons to have caused the massive damage that resulted in his death early Monday. The scores of jolting lefts that Ramos rained to the head and jaw of the featherweight champion Thursday night were described as contributing factors.

Coroner Theodore J. Curphey, reporting the findings of a two-hour autopsy, said there were small hemorrhages and edema of the structures of the brain stem and also "large contusions in the midline of the cerebral hemisphere which were probably one of the major factors in bringing about this man's demise."

Plunges Backward Into Rope
In retreating from Ramos' savage attack in the 10th round, Moore plunged backward into the ropes. The back of his neck struck the lower strand near the turnbuckle and his head snapped sharply toward his chest.

This fall, Dr. Curphey said, caused extensive brain damage, but he said blows to the jaw could have been contributing factors. A small hemorrhage was found on the right side of Moore's brain, cuts and contusions were found inside the fighter's lips, and minimum hemorrhages were on the skin of the right temple and around the joint of the right jawbone.

Fighter Was Probably Saved
Ironically, a fighter may have been saved from injury Monday night because a thick foam-rubber covering on the ropes was added after Moore's death.

Pete Gonzales of Hollywood, Calif., struck the back of his head on the lower strand in the third round after being knocked down by Wilhelm von Homburg in a fight at Hollywood's Moulin Rouge. But Gonzales, who had been floored four times in the first two rounds, recovered shortly after the referee had counted to 10.

Dr. Curphey declined to be drawn into a discussion whether boxing should be outlawed in California. Moore lost his mouthpiece early in the fight, and although it was restored at the end of the round, Curphey said, "I think the rules should require mouthpieces be placed back at once."

Lost Mouthpiece Factor
He said the absence of the mouthpiece may have intensified the effects of the facial blows that

Old Dutch, Bankers Battle For City Loop Title Tonight

Old Dutch and First National Bank are deadlocked for first place in City A Basketball League standings for second round competition with 8-1 marks and will meet in a playoff for the crown at the Memorial Building tonight at 9:30.

The winner will then battle the first half champ (Southeast Plaza) for the city title in a three-game series next week.

First National Bank earned its shot at Old Dutch with a convincing 73-61 decision over Coca-Cola at the Memorial Building Monday.

A 32-point scoring effort by Andy Salkow kept the losers in contention for three periods. The second half shooting of Dick Youngpeter and Bob Hutton for the winners was the difference.

At the end of the initial period, the score was tied 15-15. The winners took a two-point 32-30 margin at intermission and then spurred into a nine-point 53-44 spread by the end of the third stanza.

Youngpeter netted 19 markers to pace the Bankers. Hutton chipped in with 17, Sonny Bowman chalked up 15 and Frank Shagnot collected 13. Jim Hill made 10 points for the losers.

Salem Music Center Wins In Tourney
A team made up of Salem and Lisbon High School cage stars, playing for the Salem Music Center, rolled to its initial win in the Wellsville Independent Basketball Tournament by trouncing Burton's Sohio at the river city gymnasium Monday night.

The unit will battle another opponent in the tourney Wednesday night.

Dave Capel led the Music Center offense with 16 points. Bob King chipped in with 12 markers and Rich Sweitzer netted 10.

Butts Files $10 Million Suit Against Publishing Company

ATLANTA (AP) — Investigation into the alleged rigging of a college football game continued today after a $10-million libel suit was filed against the magazine which published the rigging charges.

Wallace Butts, former Georgia athletic director, filed the damage suit in federal court Monday against the Curtis Publishing Co., publishers of the Saturday Evening Post.

Butts, who resigned as athletic director in February, charged in the suit that the Post has ruined his coaching career of 35 years by "willfully, maliciously and falsely" publishing a libelous article. The suit asks $5 million in punitive and $5 million in general damages.

George Burnett, an Atlanta insurance salesman who was questioned by state and federal investigators Monday, was quoted in the Post as saying he overheard a telephone conversation between Butts and Coach Paul (Bear) Bryant of Alabama.

Burnett said in the Post article that Butts gave Georgia football secrets to Bryant eight days before the Sept. 22 game which Alabama won 35-0. Both men have denied the charges.

Butts said in the suit that the Post charged him with "rigging" and fixing the Alabama-Georgia football game with Coach Bryant as a gambling device in order to restore his financial resources.

Phillips Gets 5 Singles In 17-3 Win

Brown Tosses 2-0 Shutout At Twins

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Joe Adcock, a slick piece of wampum in any wigwam, might be just the heap big medicine man Birdie Tebbetts wanted for his Indians.

When Tebbetts came to the Cleveland reservation last winter from Milwaukee, he talked the Braves into letting Adcock go in a trade for pitcher Frank Funk and outfielder Don Dillard. Now the Indians can count on a big gun for their attack instead of a bow and arrows.

Adcock proved Monday he can supply the power that's been missing from the Cleveland attack. The 35-year-old first baseman smashed two three-run homers and singled to start another three run uprising as the Indians whipped Houston 11-3 in an exhibition game at Tucson.

Other outstanding individual performances were turned in by Philadelphia's Paul Brown, who pitched nine innings and shut out Minnesota 2-0 on six hits at Clearwater, and Bubba Phillips, who stroked five singles in Detroit's 17-3 belting of Washington at Pompano Beach.

Mets Triumph 4-3
In a pair of extra-inning affairs, Jim Hickman's 11th-inning homer gave the surprising New York Mets a 4-3 triumph over Milwaukee at St. Petersburg and Baltimore edged Pittsburgh 5-4 at Fort Myers on Mark Belanger's bases-loaded grounder in the 10th.

Elsewhere, the New York Yankees defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers 5-2 at Vero Beach, Boston beat San Francisco 4-2 at Scottsdale, St. Louis edged the Chicago White Sox 4-3 at Sarasota, Kansas City walloped Cincinnati 11-4 at Tampa and the Chicago Cubs downed the Los Angeles Angels 7-4 at Mesa.

Bob Cerv Is Released
In off-the-field activity, the Mets released veteran outfielder Bob Cerv, who said he would retire from the game; Cincinnati sold pitcher Johnny Klippstein to Philadelphia, and the Angels sold infielder Leo Burke, to St. Louis.

A word from THERON at the Country Store

Some people couldn't understand why I would help the boys next door since I am a foe of stamps and they still have them if you want them. Stamps to service stations are not a promotion, they are a protection. Nine out of ten station operators hate stamps but because some gullible food store operator next to them put them in they went along. I happened to be the one in this case and they are still stuck with them. It's too bad that a station operator who goes all the way to serve his customer must give stamps to keep some of them. But that is the way it has been.

36 days that proved Ford's total performance!

RIVERSIDE, CAL.
January 20

In a total performance test of brakes, suspension and steering on the twisting Riverside sports car course, Dan Gurney drove a Ford hardtop to victory over 43 other stock cars. The 500-mile grind demonstrated Ford's superior stamina and road-holding.

MONTE CARLO
January 23

The '63 1/2 Falcon V-8 Sprints made their debut with a fantastic showing in the 2,500-mile Monte Carlo Rallye. Through Europe's worst winter weather they placed 1st and 2nd in class. Besides this... one Sprint defeated every entrant in the Rallye's six special stages.

PURE OIL TRIALS
January 27

In a competition designed to test all-around performance, Fords were overall winners in Class I and Class II in the Pure Oil Performance Trials at Daytona. Their total performance design added up to most total points in gas economy, acceleration and braking events.

DAYTONA, FLA.
February 24

Daytona "500" history was made when '63 1/2 Fords blazed into the first five places! Since Daytona is the toughest track in the world, this was eyewitness proof that Ford's total performance design can endure the maximum automotive punishment.

...and here are the 63 1/2's that gave total proof of Ford's durability and handling!

You may never see a competitive auto event. But at 30 mph on rain-slick blacktop, in the close-packed rush of 5 o'clock traffic, on a twisting mountain road, the results are important to you. On every slippery surface you need the kind of roadability that placed five Fords out front in the Daytona "500." On every busy cross street—you want the brakes that won on Riverside's sports car circuit. Your engine will hold up better through years of turnpike use because it's as beautifully balanced as Falcon's Monte Carlo V-8's. The winning competition car is bound to be a great road car—and Ford is the big winner!

If it's Ford-built, it's built for performance... total performance!
